Regents list science lab fourth

Land acquisition loses priority

By CHRIS NIGRIN
Gateway Editor

Land acquisition at UNO is probably a moot issue for fiscal year 1980-81, UNO Chancellor Del Weber said, following action taken Friday by the NU Board of Regents.

The regents dropped the land acquisition request, originally the number four priority, to number 13, the last priority on the capital construction budget.

The board had submitted a capital construction budget to the Legislature after its September meeting without listing the projects by priority. The listing was delayed because of controversy over the placement of some of the requests.

UNO had requested $600,000 from the capital construction budget to purchase land and buildings to the west. The land was needed for office space and parking, Weber said, adding that the land UNO was considering buying was "the only land that is available to us on the campus."

In the past, the Legislature has funded the first four or five requests.

The Legislature can juggle the regents' priorities and decide which projects to fund, but UNO does not plan an appeal to that body, he said. "The regents have set their priorities and we will abide by those."

Although he said it was too early to tell if UNO would request funds for land acquisition in the 1981-82 budget, the land is "a vital part of our campus, and I'm not ready to give up on it."

Weber said this is the fourth year UNO has not received funding for land expansion, but added that money for acquisition was among the top priorities of the regents last year.

Weber said UNO now will "take a look at the whole picture" of land expansion.

"We certainly are not getting our message across about our need for the land. We need to make the message clearer," he said.

The regents apparently felt that "head count-wise we didn't grow this year," Weber said. UNO's fall semester total enrollment was 14,873 students, compared with 14,037 students last spring. UNO officials have speculated that enrollment is following a leveling trend.

He said, however, he was pleased the board listed as the fourth priority $20,000 for planning of a science lab at UNO.

The project would provide not only lab space but classroom space as well, Weber said.

If the lab science building is funded, more parking space will be lost and alternative parking will be necessary, Weber said, adding that this is another reason land acquisition is important.

"I guess I feel we need both of those" projects, he said.

At the meeting, Wilber Regent Robert Prokop criticized UNO's land request. He said "the cost won't be beneficial to UNO education. It won't help the quality of education at UNO."

Scottsbluff Regent Robert Simmons also opposed the request, saying UNO's student enrollment hasn't reached the 20,000 projected in a land expansion plan that was based on a 1971 study. Simmons said the plan is obsolete, adding that "before we give priority to long-term acquisition, we must have a long-range goal."

Lincoln Regent Ed Schwartzkopf mentioned the Downtown Education Center, scheduled for completion in the summer of 1980, as an alternative to the space problem. He suggested the building be used for early morning, noon-time and evening classes.

Rex Engebretson, assistant to the Chancellor for planning, said the 20,000 projection was not part of the original plan, but a reasonable estimate. He also said: "By any standard, we have been short since we came into the NU system."

Weber also said the land was necessary to fulfill present

New policy could force out-of-state abortions

Women who are more than three months pregnant likely will leave the state to seek abortions now, an Omaha attorney said.

Attorney Lawrence Batt, who has been involved in some abortion cases, made the comments Sunday after the NU Board of Regents voted 7-0 Friday to bar all non-therapeutic abortions at the Medical Center. The decision also covered all related educational and research programs at the center.

Batt said the University Hospital "is the only center or hospital facility in the state that performs second trimester abortions regularly."

There are three or four hospitals in the state that "for reasons of the mother's health will perform second trimester abortions," Batt said. "If a woman is going to die in the next hour or day," they will do the abortions, he said.

The board resolution directed Medical Center Chancellor Neal Vanselow to enforce the regents' directive through written procedures and regulations that keep within the requirements of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Nebraska.

The action followed an incident that occurred at the Medical Center last month in which an aborted fetus was born alive.

Batt said "therapeutic is a term out of the past. It was thought of prior to 1973 Supreme Court decisions as those abortions medically necessary." He said that definition has been changed since 1973 in two Supreme Court decisions.

The regents also cited recent Supreme Court decisions to support their policy. Two 1977 High Court rulings said that tax-supported hospitals may use public funds for natural childbirth and may withhold public funds for non-therapeutic abortions.

Simmons said the board was simply terminating a branch of education with its policy decision.

Representatives of the Lincoln-Lancaster Commission on the Status of Women, the Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, the UNL Women's Resource Center, the Lincoln YWCA and the Lincoln chapter of the National Organization for Women spoke against the resolution.

Chris Funk of the Lincoln-Lancaster Commission on the Status of Women said her group maintains a pro-choice stand, but added that the board should make sure "abortions are not being done after the fetus is viable."

Cappy Weber, spokeswoman for the Religious Coalition on Abortion Rights, said a woman "has the right legally to make the decision" on abortion.

"I hope you will not burden women who morally and religiously feel they have a moral right to choice. All women should not be punished because of one incident at the Medical Center," Weber said.

"The real issue is the procedures used by doctors and nurses at the Medical Center," she added.

Sheryl Schrepf, executive director of the Lincoln branch of the YWCA, told the regents that abortion "is a personal, religious and moral decision and isn't subject to interference from government."

She joined Weber in urging the regents to use the abortion incident "to review policies and procedures of the Medical Center."

USSA President at UNO

Jackalone: Control fees

By GARY ROSENBERG
Gateway Associate Editor

Frank Jackalone, president of the United States Student Association (USSA), said UNO student government "would be a lot more effective if they had control of student activity fees."

The 25-year-old Jackalone visited UNO last Thursday and met with student senators and administrators. He visited UNL Wednesday and discussed student concerns with administrators and some members of the Board of Regents.

Jackalone said student control of fees should be a top priority issue at UNO. With control of student fees, students would be able to invite controversial speakers to the campus, he said. Controversial speakers who discuss topics of a primary political or ideological nature and who are funded with student fees have been banned at the University by the Board of Regents.

Jackalone, the second year president of the USSA, said students at the Universities of Wisconsin and California have complete control of student fees.

Jackalone also advised student senators to form a state student association which he said would aid their lobbying effort with the state legislature. Sen. Gary DiSilvestro said such an organization is in the planning stages.

Since the regents recently passed a 10 percent tuition hike for the 1980-81 school year, much to the disdain of many students, Jackalone suggested lobbying the Unicameral for a tuition lid for 1981-82.

Bernard Kolasa, president of the UNO chapter of the American Association of University Professors, discussed student involvement in collective bargaining with Jackalone. Jackalone also discussed issues with Chancellor Del Weber and Vice Chancellor Ronald Beer.

Organizing a comprehensive voter registration drive in the spring is another project student government should work on, Jackalone said. Aside from voting, Jackalone said students could influence legislation by writing to congressmen about their feelings on student related bills and issues.

'Skillful marketing' key to success 'Godfather's' founder seeks growth

By MICK GAHAN
Gateway Staff Writer

For a man who started out with no restaurant experience, Willie Theisen has done pretty well.

Theisen, 34, is the president of Godfather's Pizza, an Omaha-based franchising company.

Speaking to a marketing class at UNO last Wednesday, Theisen told of the birth of Godfather's. After experiences in apartment management and later construction, Theisen teamed up with partner Greg Johnson and started a lounge in Omaha called Wild Willie's.

Theisen was in charge of the lounge, while Johnson cooked pizza in the kitchen. Johnson left Omaha soon afterwards but Theisen felt the pizza could continue on it's own, so he started the first Godfather's at 99th and Q Street.

Three years later, Godfather's has become the fourth largest pizza chain in the country with 285 restaurants, (trailing Pizza Hut, Pizza Inn and Shakey's). Expanding at the rate of 10 to 15 new units a month nationwide, Theisen hopes to have 700 stores in the next two and a half years, placing him third.

Theisen attributes the success of Godfather's to "Skillful marketing of a good product."

Although he said, "Advertising agencies are a necessary evil," Theisen makes good use of Ellis & Guy, the agency which promotes Godfather's. Of retired postal worker Bill Koll, who plays the part of the Godfather in commercials, Theisen said, "Bill is becoming as popular as Colonel Sanders."

"Bill takes the role very seriously. He eats, drinks and sleeps the role of the Godfather. He attracts kids like the Pied Piper; the kids really respond to him."

Theisen uses a variety of marketing techniques. One which was particularly successful was the offer of a free pitcher of pop with the purchase of a large or medium pizza and any coupon. Theisen said people were bringing in coupons varying from, "Our competitor's coupons to dog food coupons. People were even making their own coupons out of paper napkins."

When asked where he conceived the name Godfather's, Theisen said, "The movie 'The Godfather' was at it's peak. Almost everyone saw the movie and 'The Godfather' meant Italian and Italian meant pizza." It was an idea he thought would catch on.

Catch on it did. Just to keep a finger on the business Theisen travels more than 25,000 miles a month in his Falcon (a French built jet).

His latest idea is a taco-styled pizza called "Hot Stuff." Always promoting, Theisen invited the class for lunch to sample his new creation at the Godfather's at 74th and Pacific.

Career workshops set to begin today

By KATHY NISSEN
Gateway Staff Writer

For those people who are in the process of choosing a career, the Career Development Workshops have been planned just for you.

The workshops will consist of three different sessions that will meet two hours each week for three weeks.

The first workshop is scheduled for today, Oct. 24 and 31 and meets from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in room 315 of the Student Center. The second workshop will be held November 1, 8 and 15 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, also in room 315. All interested persons are welcome to register. The workshops are free of charge.

During the first session of the workshops, decision making in career planning will be discussed. The second session will include self-assessment, including the importance of the participant's interests, skills and values and their relation to a career choice. The third session will combine sessions one and two and explore various careers.

According to Dorothy Graham, UNO's Career Development Specialist, the goal of the workshops is "to make participants aware of the process of career development and to relate this process to their academic careers."

Graham says the Career Development Center at UNO is here to assist students, as well as interested others, in exploring career alternatives and making career decisions.

"An appropriate and satisfying career decision can be made more effectively if the person has more information on themselves and the world of work," said Graham.

Aside from the workshops, the Career Development Center, located in the Eppley Building, offers individual counseling, complete utilization of the center and materials which can aid in the career decision.

The center also performs tests and test interpretations for individuals such as interest inventory tests, personality type tests and need assessment tests.

Graham encourages students to stop by the center or make an appointment to visit with her. "I'm anxious for students to become aware of all the possibilities," Graham said.

SIN is Available

The word SIN, is an abbreviation for Campus Security's Safety In Numbers personal escort program, which was established in 1974. The purpose of this program is to provide escorts to individuals on campus to their vehicles during the evening/night hours.

If you don't wish to walk to your vehicle, parked on the far end of campus, call the Campus Security Office, x2648 and ask for a personal escort to your vehicle. Advise us of your location and where you wish to meet the Officer. You will need to wait only a few minutes, depending upon other activities and the status of the Officers on duty. An alternative, is to gather a group of individuals going to the same location and walk together.

I've talked to several who didn't want to bother anyone, or thought it foolish to request an escort. Well, I think the record speaks for itself. During the past five (5) years we have escorted 943 persons in this program. Last year there were 502 persons requesting this service.

If in doubt, call us, we'll be willing to help you.

Daub: Chances good for GOP party victory in 1980 vote

By DON MEISSNER
Gateway Staff Writer

"I don't think there is any greater opportunity for a Republican party victory than in 1980," said Hal Daub, a Republican politician who spoke to the UNO Young Republicans Sunday.

Daub who is the vice-president of Standard Livestock Feed Mfg. Co., told the group that the possibility for the victory does not center on the fact that Jimmy Carter is the president, but because the activities in Congress are the cause of the major problems we have today.

Because of the problems created in the 70's, Daub said the 80's will have to provide the solutions. Daub also said that the time to develop those solutions is more critical now than during the years he was in college.

"High prices limit choices," he said. He went on to explain that because of today's inflation many people cannot buy what they want and in some cases what they need. According to Daub, a change is needed. One way that change can come is to elect new faces into the congressional seats.

Daub urged the Young Republicans to talk with their friends and to convince them that a change is needed.

"We can say it's not whether you are a Democrat or Republican," said Daub, "But if you are not happy with the way things are, or the way things might be in the prospective future, then isn't it fair to give the other guys a chance?"

Daub told the group before the change is made, they must first change themselves. "Don't ask them to change as far as registration," he said, "but tell them it is possible to change while voting."

"If you and I would talk to our friends," Daub said, "they just might accept it."

Daub also said that for the first time in history, the Republican convention will be held before the Democratic convention. "This is different," he said, "and the advantages of being a month ahead in campaigning might make the difference." Usually the Democrats choose their candidate first and the Republicans choose after they see who they will be up against.

Daub then closed his speech which was titled "The Decade of the 80's and Our Requirement for Commitment to the Political Process," by saying it is very critical that we feel compelled to get involved with political activity at the present even though we are not sure who will be running for offices.

Daub said he is planning on running for political office in the 1980 election. He said in all likelihood he will be running for a seat in the House of Representatives.

senators can have impact on legislation in Washington, D.C." Jackalone said. "Even when you get five phone calls and 10 letters from a campus, that has an impact because they multiply it."

As president of USSA, Jackalone said he spends about two-thirds of his time in Washington coordinating membership with the board of directors and lobbying. He visits college campuses the rest of the time. Jackalone will return to college at the University of New York in Buffalo after his term as president.

Some of the national issues which USSA is working on include increasing financial aid for more students, passage of a national "truth in testing" bill aimed at publicizing more information about the viability and accuracy of college entry tests, and working against the military draft.

Aside from lobbying, the USSA holds national and regional conferences, works for maintaining or gaining student rights on college campuses, and provides publications on student related issues in education and broader social questions.

Jackalone said the group has a special concern of working for rights of minority and women students.

Two regents decisions may have repercussions

The NU Board of Regents made at least two decisions at its meeting Friday that could prove damaging and produce repercussions in the future.

One of the decisions, to drop UNO land acquisition lower on the capital construction priority list, is a decision that will severely hamper and probably halt westward expansion for the next fiscal year.

The other move, which was to bar all non-therapeutic abortions and related educational and research programs at the Medical Center, has the potential to affect all women in Omaha.

The decision about funding for land expansion is not surprising; after all, the handwriting was on the wall. The regents at their September meeting criticized the request, listed as the fourth priority at that time. Regent Kermit Hansen, of Omaha, who often supports UNO in its business before the board, was hospitalized and unable to make the meeting last Friday.

The resolution on abortion is perhaps more unexpected. It's difficult to understand how the board could justify a decision that should rightly be a personal one. Women should have the freedom of choice — to say yes or no when abortion is an alternative.

The board decision effectively takes away this right for many women, especially for those in their second trimester of pregnancy. The University Hospital is the only facility in the state that does second trimester abortions regularly. Women who are more than three months pregnant and want abortions will now probably go outstate to find one.

Yes, the incident at the Medical Center that prompted this decision, an abortion in which the fetus was born alive, is indeed a tragedy. However the way to handle this problem is not by banning all non-therapeutic abortions, but by reviewing the practices and procedures at the Medical Center to ensure there is not a repeat of the incident.

commentary

Rift between blacks and Jews gets violent

By NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN

Fay Stender, a Jewish lawyer, paralyzed from the waist down, her arms shattered, and a lung collapsed after being shot six times, is recuperating in a San Francisco bay area hospital. She will not ever be able to walk again, this woman who gave so much of herself personally and professionally to civil rights and prisoner rights.

Yet according to her son, who was tied up and made to watch what was done to his mother, it was a black man and a black woman who entered their house at gunpoint last Memorial Day and committed this barbaric mayhem on the lawyer, but not before making her write, "I, Fay Stender, betrayed George Jackson (a black convict-martyr-author who wrote Soledad Brother and was killed by prison guards) and the prison movement when they needed me most."

What this statement meant to the two who dictated it eludes understanding, especially since even those who have disagreed with and disliked Stender have never questioned her undeviating dedication to the poor and the powerless. Perhaps it is a criminally psychotic manifestation of what has happened between some blacks and some Jews.

In a certain stratum of Jewish society, the sort that mistreat their maids, there has always been a contemptuous dislike of the primitive schwarze; but a Jewish world which produced the urban slumlord stereotype also produced a succession of Jews who gave their money and their lives to destroy racism and racial discrimination in our country. Jewish philanthropists backed Martin Luther King before it was fashionable, and two of the three civil rights workers murdered in Philadelphia, Miss., in 1964 were Jewish.

So if some Jews figure blacks owe them one on the Israeli issue, who can blame them? They don't sense the love-hate tug-o'-war that must be pulling some black consciences this way and that. These delegations of black ministers moving about the Middle East, sympathizing with the PLO and making the Israelis look arrogantly proud and obdurately oxen-headed, must be causing much irritation in many Jewish circles here in America.

For black leaders, of course, the Jewish position on affirmative action, quotas, the Bakke case, is seen as snuffing the group's economic future. Blacks, with their history of being chiseled and cheated, think they must have these protective devices for the same reasons certain industries must have a protective tariff.

But what is a protection for blacks is a barrier for Jew. Partly this is because of the relative size of the two groups. Expedients which may help a numerically minute group like the Jews may not be serviceable for blacks, who constitute more than 10 percent of the population, most of which is poor working class.

With another set of issues a swap would be the answer — Jewish support on quotas in return for black support for guns and money and a free hand to bomb the bejabbers out of Lebanon for the Israelis. Or if Jews are convinced that affirmative action quotas are just too disadvantageous, then back off on the Israeli question, but that, obviously, is also too hard for many Jews to do. They cannot trust themselves completely with the goyim. Too many centuries of too many pogroms.

To some Jews, the concern for Palestine rights by American Christians — of whatever color — may have other and worse motives. Carolyn Toll in the Progressive magazine (August 1, 1979) wonders if some of the goyim aren't saying to themselves, "At last, we're off the hook. All the pressure to hide our natural dislike of Jews, to be polite because of their terrible holocaust experience is over. This Palestinian cause is also just. The Jews themselves are oppressing an underdog who needs our sympathies."

We have arrived at a skittish and skiddy moment, a moment when we must make an extra effort to understand the other person's fears, when we should leave off reaching for debating points, and, if push we must, let it be done ever so gently. Fay Stender reminds us of the misery and wrong that can come when formerly good friends violently fall out.

Land acquisition...

(continued from page 1) needs, adding that the campus was overloaded. "The use of our present facilities and land meet or surpass NU standards."

The vote was 5-2 with Regents James Moylan of Omaha and Robert Raun of Minden opposing the lowering of land acquisition on the priority list. Regent Kermit Hansen of Omaha was hospitalized and unable to attend the meeting.

The top project was $2 million for university-wide energy conservation. The other top projects were: $3,382,000 for remodeling of an agriculture and engineering building at UNL; $120,000 for renovation of the University Hospital for dental students, and $800,000 for renovation of UNL's Bessey Hall.

In a related budget matter, the University will draw up two more budgets, one based on a 7 percent increase and the other on a 10 percent hike, to be presented at the November regents meeting.

The budgets will be considered if the Legislature refuses to increase the budget 15 percent as has been requested. Omaha Regent James Moylan requested the alternative budgets.

Simmons said: "We can't wait until the last minute and say, oh well. We must anticipate what we can get and ask for that."

Schwartzkopf said the University can't operate on a 7 percent budget "without extravagant cuts that really can hurt."

He said the regents were "abdicated" their responsibility to push for quality education.

Omaha State Sen. Bernice Labedz supported the regents resolution. She said that not one of the women who had talked "spoke about the right of an unborn child."

In other action:

—The board extended the Christmas recess this year six days. The recess, which will be 16 days, would affect the Lincoln and Omaha campuses. The move is designed to conserve energy.

—NU President Ronald Roskens made a statement about the recent election at UNO that established the American Association of University Professors chapter as the faculty collective bargaining agent. Roskens said: "Within the confines which must be established by the initiation of the collective bargaining process, it is our intention to continue the collegial spirit to the extent that the new process will permit."

He said he was personally disappointed by the election's outcome, but that he was "heartened by what I believe to be the fair, open and accurate way in which the issues were addressed and the decisions reached."

—Roskens reported that a University-wide form would be ready soon to keep a record of the outside activities of faculty and staff. This decision followed discussion and controversy at previous regents meetings about outside consultancies.

Sophomore tops CC

By ERNIE MAY
Gateway Sports Writer

One of the top runners for Coach Bob Condon's Lady Mav cross country team this season has been Theresa Schoonover.

Schoonover, a sophomore from Lincoln High School, finished eighth and tenth in her first two races this season and last week in the Lady Mav Invitational finished in first place.

Schoonover came to UNO last season after a standout prep career. During her high school career, Schoonover was a three-time Class A champion in the mile and twice all-around state champion.

Schoonover said that she has no particular strategy when she runs. "I just go out and do my best," said Schoonover, "and try to finish high in the standings."

The big difference between this year's team and last, said Schoonover, is that the team is running together more. "We have three or four good finishers," said Schoonover, "instead of just one."

Schoonover said she became interested in running about six years ago and decided to take it up.

"I run eight to ten miles a day during the cross country season," said Schoonover, "but during the summer I don't run as much."

During the summer Schoonover said she keeps active by swimming, playing softball and participating in other sports.

Schoonover said that being one of the team's top runners does not put any pressure on her. "I get a little nervous before a meet," said Schoonover, "but after I start running I calm down."

Schoonover, a physical education and business major, said that her only goals are to go to the nationals and do better than she did last year.

Last year, Schoonover finished 89th in the nationals as a freshman. This season she has a year of competition under her belt, and, fortunately for Coach Condon, two years left.

Husker test is tough

The Lady Mavs' cross country squad found the competition fierce at Saturday's Husker Invitational, finishing last in a field of six teams.

Kansas State took top honors as Janel LeValley crossed the finish line first with a time of 19:10 over the 5,000-meter course in Lincoln's Pioneer Park.

Other teams competing included (in order of finish) Missouri, Kansas, Kearney State, and Nebraska-Lincoln.

Theresa Schoonover was UNO's top finisher with a time of 20:12, good for 17th place. Barb Catlin finished in 26th place with a 21:20 clocking, with Kristi Grace capturing 29th in 21:54.

Theresa Baumert completed the course in 22:56, good for 36th place, while Marge Sailors finished one notch behind Baumert with a clocking of 25:35.

Goals new after Mav loss

By AL ALEXANDER
Gateway Feature Editor

Sunday was a long day for UNO Coach Sandy Buda.

It was a day spent reassessing the preseason goals he had set for his Maverick football team in the wake of last Saturday's 31-14 loss to South Dakota State.

The loss dropped the Mavericks' overall record to 5-2, but more importantly it all but erased UNO's hopes of winning the North Central Conference title and a repeat trip to the NCAA Division II playoffs.

"We definitely have to reassess our goals," said a disappointed Buda after viewing films of the game.

"The loss obviously dealt a serious blow to our hopes of winning the NCC. The best we can do now is hope to tie for the championship, but we're going to need a lot of help from the other conference teams."

"We've set our goals now on a 9-2 season and hope that's good enough to get us a playoff berth."

He feels that is a reachable goal since "there are very few teams with 9-2 records at the end of the season. I feel we still have a good shot at the playoffs."

The loss to the 5-1 Jackrabbits came as a bit of surprise to many UNO faithful, but not Buda, who forewarned of SDS's power.

"I said all along that you throw all the teams in the NCC into a bag and pull out the winner. That's how balanced this conference is," said Buda.

SDSU's quarterback Gary Maffett and wide receiver Lionel Macklin helped prove Buda's assertion. The pair teamed up on touchdown pass plays of 40 and 32 yards to key the Jacks, who were considered a pre-season also-ran.

"I said all last week that the key to stopping South Dakota State is stopping Maffett and Macklin, and obviously we didn't get the job done," said Buda.

Macklin ended the night with seven receptions for 111 yards while Maffett hit 15 of 28 passes for 210 yards and rushed for 44 yards. In all, the Jacks accumulated 444 yards in total offense compared to 312 for UNO.

One-hundred and ninety-five of those yards came in the first half for the Mavericks as they jumped to a 14-0 lead with 12:05 to go in the second quarter.

UNO's early surge was keyed by the play of offensive player of the game Bobby Bass, who rushed for 132 yards on 24 carries, and the passing combination of Mike Mancuso to K.R. Anderson.

Anderson, who hauled down 5 of Mancuso's passes for 99 yards, set up the Mavericks' first touchdown following an interception by UNO's defensive player of the game Mark Edwards at the SDS 36.

Anderson's reception of a 16-yard pass on a third-and-five situation at the Jacks 16 set the stage for Mancuso's 1-yard sweep for the touchdown two plays later.

A 33-yard Mancuso to Anderson pass, and a 21-yard burst by Bass highlighted the Mavs' second scoring drive. The touchdown, which capped a six play, 60-yard drive, came on a twisting 4-yard run by Tim Rogers. It was his tenth touchdown of the season.

Mark Schlecht, who earlier missed a field goal attempt of 38 yards, added the second of his two extra point kicks. At that point most of the 3,539 on hand at Coughlin Stadium thought they were about to witness another one-sided Maverick victory.

But the M&M combination of Macklin and Maffett put an end to such thoughts by the end of the first half as the Jackrabbits rallied to forge a 14-14 tie.

The scores came on a 3-yard run by Dan Johnson, the Jacks' leading rusher with 119 yards, and a 40 yard pass to Macklin, who hauled in 7 passes for 111 yards on the day.

After a defensive standoff through most of the third period SDSU took the lead on a 24-yard field goal by Tony Harris with one second remaining in the quarter.

The Jackrabbits broke the game open later on Maffett's 32-yard scoring strike to Macklin with 5:01 remaining. The 62-yard drive was set up by Brad Christiansen's interception of

ROTC ends winless string

By PETE DESJARDINS
Gateway Sports Writer

All things must pass, and it's a good thing for ROTC they must. ROTC, scoreless and winless in two years, won its first battle in a long time, defeating the Have Notes, 16-0.

The Have Notes, down just 2-0, were driving for a touchdown and were ready to sing a happy tune, but ROTC's Miek Tighe played taps and came up with an interception return for a touchdown to secure ROTC's victory. Bill Foster also scored a touchdown for ROTC.

In other "B" league games, Pen & Sword added two wins as they poked WOIYC, 18-6, and slashed ROTC, 28-0. Mike Isley, Dave Hines, and "T" Foster had two touchdowns apiece for the week, and Frank Dibble had one six-pointer, and Pen & Sword remained unbeaten.

WOIYC were 1-1 on the week, taking a 7-6 overtime victory over NRFPTP. The Weebing warriors gained 6 inches more than NRFPTP in the sudden death period to retain their victory.

In A-1 league action, the Hot Rocks pestered the Panthers, but still came away on the short end of a 16-0 score. Ray Rutledge and Ron Starks scored touchdowns as the undefeated Panthers have yet to give up their #1 rating.

UNO Rugby taught the Nukes a lesson they won't soon forget as their surly offense and tipsy defense ran up a 26-6 victory for the 2-2 Ruggers. Doug Kochenderfer scored twice and Casey Cornwall added a touchdown to benefit the winning effort. Bruce Howell scored a TD for the hapless Nukes.

I Phelta Thi stayed atop the A-2 division, but just barely, as they squeezed by the Zambinos, 8-6. Darrell Sear scored a touchdown for the short handed I Phelta Thi team, and Ed Pouster added the winning conversion. Kevin Draper scored the only touchdown for the Zambinos.

It was a week of double jeopardy for the Zambinos, as they lost their second game in as many days to the SOB's. John Paul Paletta crossed the goal line three times for the SOB's, as they rolled to a 28-0 victory.

The fraternity league finally settled down a little, as there was only one mild upset among last week's games.

Ph Kappa Phi, struggling for Mancuso pass at the SDS 28. UNO, which netted a mere 117 total yards in the second half, never threatened the final five minutes as the Mavs failed to cross their own 24 yard-line.

The UNO Athletic Department has the last 400 remaining tickets for the UNO-South Dakota football game scheduled for October 27. Mav fans are encouraged to purchase their tickets before October 19. After that date, all unsold tickets will be returned to South Dakota.

The game is a sell out due to South Dakota's homecoming, Dakota Days. No tickets will be available at Vermillion for the game.

Adult tickets are $7.50 each. Students with an I.D. can purchase tickets for $5.00. These tickets will be on sale in the athletic business office at UNO. Call 554-2310 for further ticket information.

recognition, knocked off #4 Sig Eps, 14-7 to rise in the standings. Kirk Doane and Don Stevens had touchdowns for Pi Kappa Phi.

Last place TKE played the high and mighty Pikes tough for the first part of the game, but finally succumbed to their potent offense, 19-0. Jeff Kangas scored all three of the Pikes touchdowns, and Dave Buckley added a pat for the winners.

This week's feature team is Omega Psi Phi, the newest Fraternity on UNO's campus. James Mason tells why the Fraternity was started: "There was a need for a Fraternity for blacks and other minorities on campus, and we had been a member of IFC (Intra Fraternity Council) for a couple of years, so we started a team."

Omega's success has varied with the amount of members that have shown up for games. The only time they have had a full team was in their 24-0 pasting of Sig Tau.

"We didn't get as many members as we expected," says Mason, "but we plan to continue in Intramurals."

Mason, an all star with the Pen & Sword team last year, is not discouraged about the showing of his team, "there are a lot of conflicts with school and work for some players, but other than that we're all right."

Rarely does outside influence affect what goes into this column, but I have been told that the real athletes play knee-tackle football. Knee tackle is played on mats about as long as a basketball court and everything is the same as regular football except for the fact that participants play on their knees. The mid-season knee tackle standings are as follows:

Re Cappa Tire	4-0

Another group of unsung heroes (or heroines) started play this week, as the women's flag football season commenced.

The UNO Maverick soccer team, behind the hat trick of Bill Jackson and two goals of Mark Rozmajzl, defeated the University of South Dakota 7-0, Saturday, at Al Caniglia Stadium.

The game, which started ten minutes late because of transportation problems by South Dakota, was never in doubt as the Mavericks dominated play.

UNO's first goal came with 28:33 left in the first half on a shot from 20 yards out by Mike Dinwoodie. That was followed just four minutes later by Bill Jackson's first of three goals.

After Jackson scored his second goal, Henry Ryan brought the crowd to its feet when he scored the Mavs' third goal on a breakaway.

Ryan took a pass inside the South Dakota end, aide-stepped the lone defender and slapped the ball past the South Dakota goalie, who came out of the net to cut down Ryan's angle. Ryan's goal gave the Mavericks a 4-0 halftime lead.

In the second half, the Mavs began where they left off in the first half. With just 14 minutes gone, Jackson scored his third goal of the game, which was followed six minutes later by Mark Rozmajzl's breakaway goal.

UNO closed out the scoring with 17 minutes left in the game when Rozmajzl headed Abraham Muwwarah's centering pass into the South Dakota goal.

UNO goalie Jim Houston, who sat out Thursday's upset win over the Creighton Bluejays with a sore shoulder, was left virtually alone as all the action took place on the South Dakota end of the field. Houston's only pressure came when he made a diving save on a breakaway shot by South Dakota.

The final statistics show just how one-sided the game was, with UNO taking 56 shots on goal compared to South Dakota's six shots.

Maverick Coach Peter Kassay-Farkas said after the game that he was pleased with the way his team played. "We're getting better," said Kassay-Farkas. "The team was passing well tonight and it showed in the score."

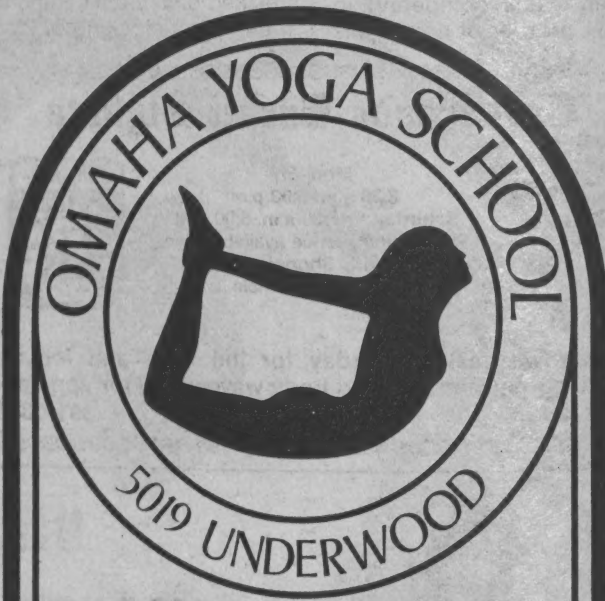

Kassay-Farkas said he was happy with the unselfish play of his team. He said the players were willing to pass the ball to an open man rather than trying to handle it in traffic.

The near 40-degree temperature that the game was played in didn't bother the team said Kassay-Farkas. "We practice in cold weather," he said, "usually late at night around 9:00 so we're used to it."

The victory gave the Mavs a 7-3 record and 4-0 in conference play, tied with Dordt College for first place.

UNO's next game is against Concordia tomorrow at 7:00 at Al Caniglia Stadium, where the team is hoping for a good turnout by UNO fans.

"The fans make a big difference," said Kassay-Farkas. "It's easier to play in front of a cheering crowd. It gets the team up."
